World War II service on the South Dakota Public Broadcasting web site Dakota Stories (http://www.d akotastories.org/), and in the process unravelled a mystery about an extremely significen South Dakotans played in win ning the war in the Pacific. Albert Breck left his employment at the Homestake Gold of 1942 when his daughters were very young, to join the war effort in Hawaii only a few months afte the attack on Pearl Harbor.

He was stationed in Honolulu for almost two years, but what he did there was a mystery to his family, never discussed, even long after the war ended.
Among his papers were several references to a "Red Hill Project" in Hawaii and some Red Hill in Hawaii and some Red Hil magazines with stories about camp life, but nothing gave any information about what that project was.
Even in the letters to his wife Myrle Breck back in Lead, there was no clue about what he was actually doing in Hawaii.
The sisters' search on the internet this year turned up the reason ect that he had worked for was a Top Secret war-time project that finally declassified in 1995 . The Red Hill Project was un-

Eagles shut out Longhorns

Crews clean off the Wall Football field on Tuesday, October 29 morning in perperation for the first round of football playoffs. Rain which turned to slush and then snow fell the night before and made the field a little slick for the Wall vs. Faith game

Ben Linn and Ridge Sandal tackled and blocked for the Eagles during the first round of football playoffs. The Eagles beat Faith 34-0 and will go on to the second round of playoffs.
